

TEXAS RENEITS
BY 'DRY' LAWSTurnbull, Immigration Inspectors, Sees Industrial Villages After War.

Inspector Martin Turnbull, of the United States immigration service, stationed at New Orleans, passed through El Paso Wednesday evening, en route to San Francisco. Mr. Turnbull, a pioneer newspaper reporter and editor, is accompanying a party of Chinese (transits to Angel Island).

"Texas," said Mr. Turnbull, "has set an example to the world that shall rank it among the greatest commonwealths in the United States."

"The closing of saloons and the restriction of alcoholic drinks signifies social and industrial advancement for the present and future generations."

"The soldiers who 'dug out' of Texas are to be distinguished at once in appearance by their sober, sane and healthy, attributes to essentially a high standard of useful manhood. It must be very satisfying to the president, to the secretary of the navy and to the secretary of the state to know and feel that the Lone Star state has contributed its full quota of mentally and physically able bodied fighters for the cause of democracy and freedom."

"God bless and protect the youth of Texas, especially the youth of the south, and let us hope and trust that Louisiana will follow at once the wise course of her sister state by abolishing whiskey."

Promote Industrial Villages.

Inspector Turnbull is endeavoring to promote a system of "industrial villages" for occupation after the war by the homecoming soldiers. The vast regions, Texas especially, he said, should be settled with small villages on account of the climate and the fecundity of the soil. Under state and federal supervision wonderful results may be expected, he said.

"The industrial village plan," said Mr. Turnbull, "is a slogan of the future. It is a slogan that people much prefer to live close together. This may be noticed in the congested portions of the large cities of the east and north. The settlement of you can cure that bacchanal."

Along the back, diarrhea, headache and general uneasiness. Get a package of Miller Gray's ANTI-MATH-LEAF, the pleasant medicinal tea. Use it at intervals of a few hours and you feel all your troubles melt away and without weary use the remarkable combination of nature's herbs and roots. As a tonic laxative it has no equal. ALTAVISTANS TO MEET ON FRIDAYCouncil of Defence to Have Rally With Music and Speaking.

Alta Vista branch of the El Paso Council of Defence has been organized, with Crawford Harvey as chairman, and in order to interest the people of that section of the city in the war, a big rally is to be held in Alta Vista school Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The meeting will be open to men and women alike, a special invitation being extended to the women. There will be music by a military band and speaking by well known local people.

Plans will be laid for cooperating with the County Council of Defence and talks will be made to convince the present of the necessity for co-operating in every possible manner with the government. These defence councils are formed for the purpose of coordinating all government measures for winning the war and there will be informative discussions of the necessity for the various conservation measures taken by the government.

By joining these councils of defence, the people will come in much closer touch with the government. They will become better informed on the course of the war and the reasons for many of the things the government is doing. Many people think some of the things the government does are merely arbitrary. The government does not wish to impose any hardship on the people and all its actions have been for the purpose of winning the war and guarding against famine and suffering.

It is patriotic for the people to affiliate with these councils of defence and keep in close touch with the government.

Several families on village sites would prove popular and profitable.

"The mosquito tree and the nopal plants on the mountain slopes would soon be replaced by succulent fruits and vegetables, artificial lakes, fountains and inviting dwellings. The machetes and machetes under the trees would be replaced by the sun and the breeze blowing through the trees. The people would be happy and contented. Indeed, industrial and domestic happiness is in store for Texas."

"I Don't Want To Live", Says
Woman SlayerMiss Lusk Is Convicted;
Attacks Aged Prosecutor
Until Dragged Away.

Waukegan, Wis., May 28.—When Grace Lusk, convicted of murder in the second degree last night, awoke today from a sleep induced by opiates, she moaned:

"I don't want to live! I don't want to live!"

The conviction, which was for the killing of Mary Newman Roberts last June, carries a sentence of from 14 to 25 years' imprisonment. Owing to the prisoner's condition, however, Judge Lusk intimated that he would not pronounce sentence until Miss Lusk is more composed.

Meanwhile, every instrument by which she might do herself injury has been removed from her cell and beyond her reach.

When the case was given to the jury yesterday evening, Miss Lusk, who had shown little emotion during the day broke down and sobbed hysterically, and it was only after restoration had been applied that she was able to get back to the court room when the jury announced that it was ready to report.

After W. H. Meadows, foreman of the jury, had spoken the words which would send her to the penitentiary, Miss Lusk leaned her head back against her father's shoulder like a child in despair.

Then comes the outbreak.

After remaining quiet for a moment, she again closed, she slowly rose to her feet, despite Mr. Lusk's efforts to restrain her and quietly walked around the counsel table until she confronted acting district attorney Paul. There was utter silence as she pulled dramatically before throwing herself at the aged man with a cry which could be heard in every part of the building.

Threatened Aged Prosecutor.

Grasping the throat of Mr. Paul, who is more than 60 years old, she shook him back and forth in his chair at the counsel table until several men dragged her away, when she fainted.

Recovering, several minutes later, her father and one of her attorneys attempted to lead her from the court room, but she struggled with them, her hair tumbling about her face as she was dragged away screaming.

"That man's son lied! He lied! He lied my life away!"

Several hundred spectators, mostly women, stood with tears streaming down their faces during the outbreak. The 12 men on the jury stood in their places with solemn faces as though paralyzed and shrunk away from Miss Lusk as she was led past the jury box.

Verdict: Tulane in San Antonio.

Maurice Tulane, now in a sanatorium because of ill health, is the district attorney of Waukegan, and at the trial swore that four days after the shooting of Mrs. Roberts, he obtained a statement from Miss Lusk in which she said that she realized why she had shot Mrs. Roberts, but could not understand why she had done it "so calmly and deliberately."

D. R. Tulane was appointed special prosecutor by his son, who was unable to act because of illness.

34TH MINSTRELS
GIVE GOOD SHOWGuests at Khaki Club Are Service Board Subscribers and Rotarians.

The budget subscribers to the war camp community service and members of the Rotary club were delighted to be entertained by the 34th Minstrels Wednesday night at the Khaki club with the presentation of the minstrel show which made a big hit at the El Paso. The house committee of the club provided plenty of snacks, wafers and punch.

The background of the stage was decorated with flags and chrysanthemums, the latter being designed of crepe paper and fastened to a curtain. Several musical selections were played by the orchestra of the 34th Minstrels and as the curtain was slowly drawn aside the black faced comedians sang "In the Evening by the Moonlight." The show was a "serenade" from start to finish. The singing and dancing was especially fine and many clever jokes were given.

"Homey Music" Pleases.

"Fun in a Barber Shop," introducing W. J. Bryant, a comedian, and the Italian fandango, was exceptionally well done, and he was encored by W. H. Bennett, sang "I Am All Round Round with the Mason-Dixon Line," "Callin' On The Railroad," "So Long Mother," by G. M. Waller.

The dance by William Quinn, was a song that he had to respond to an encore.

Tells of Work at Club.

Julius Krakauer, chairman of the war camp community service executive board, was introduced by A. A. Platt, executive of the El Paso chapter of the show. Mr. Krakauer told a tribute to the house committee, Francis Russell and the members of the executive board.

Before the audience was dismissed a photograph of the 34th Minstrels and the audience.

TODAY'S AMUSEMENTS

"PRUNELLA"—"PRUNELLA."

"Prunella," which was in its time one of the most popular of stage productions, and in which Theda Bara played the part of a runaway girl, was yesterday at the Alhambra in a picture by the same name, starring Miss Clark.

The screen version has been taken bodily from the play and many features that were important in the production of the stage, such as the details of the glorious old garden where Theda Bara and her three actresses, have been incorporated in the screen version. The old sun dial and statue of love erected by Prunella's runaway father, are all beautifully shown.

Maurice Tulane, the director, admitted that "Prunella" was his favorite play, and to it he has devoted all the electricity and light which have made him famous in many other productions. We know that you will not need to be urged to see Miss Clark in this last showing of "Prunella" today.

Theda Bara is coming June 9 in "Cleopatra."—Adv.
